POWERSCREEN TRAKPACTOR 320SR

Crusher and Screener all-in-one

For more than 60 years, the Mendi Group has been a mainstay of the north and central regions of Queensland, offering expertise in civil construction, property and project development, bulk haulage and logistics, plant hire and contract crushing. In the past nine years, the company has also established a presence in the local quarrying market, operating four quarries: two sand sites and two hard rock quarries.

With an impressive array of materials handling equipment, the customer was looking for one machine that would be suitable for hard rock and soft applications – two applications complete opposites. The challenge was that space was limited, they required a versatile option that would help minimise its impact on the surrounding environment and that could deliver a quality and consistent end-product.

Our team worked closely with the customer to recommend an equipment that not only met the specifications but increased the safety, ease of operation and maintenance.

The Powerscreen Trakpactor 320SR Impact Crusher was fit for purpose – they are designed to excel in secondary applications. It also has the recirculating conveyor which raises for transport allowing more ground clearance under the machine when moving on site and while loading for transport.

The equipment has been delivered and has been crushing 1500 to 1800 tonnes a day without fail. Because it has the crusher and the screener as a combination on the one chassis, it is easy to move around from site to site, instead of moving a jaw/cone/screener configuration, the customer can use the one unit.
